SOLICITOR'S DEALINGS.

JUDGE AND PUNITIVE POWERS

An Irish solicitor's conduct in regard to dealings with certain purchase moneys which passed through his hands was finally before the Lord Chief Justice in the Court of Appeal, Dublin, on Saturday.

The matter had been before the Court on previous occasions, and had been adjourned.

It was now stated that the solicitor concerned had paid the balance due, and a strong appeal was made to his lordship to stay all further proceedings in the matter.

In reply to the Lord Chief Justice, Mr. Blood, K.C., on behalf of the Incorporated Law Society, said that he left the matter entirely in his lordship's hands. In the special circumstances of this case, he would not press for punishment.

His Lordship said that, so long as he occupied his present position, he would not allow the punitive powers which he possessed to be exercised for the purpose of collecting money. In the present case he would not allow the appeal which had been made, and would make no rule on the matter, other than that the solicitor concerned should pay the costs of the proceedings.

Neurasthenia.

SOLDIER'S WONDERFUL CURE.

How Dr. Cassell's Tablets Banished Completely a terrible legacy of Shock and Nervous Breakdown caused by War Service.

Mr. G. O'Knight McDonald, 81 Cumberland street, Bridgton, Glasgow, was one of the many thousands of sufferers whose nervous system broke down under the hardship, shock, and anxiety of the Great War. The sequel to the illness which followed his four years of service bears magnificent testimony to the splendid nerve and body-building virtue of Dr. Cassell's Tablets.

He says: "I was invalided home from Italy in July, 1919, in a state of acute nervous breakdown. Those who know anything of the terrors associated with the dread complaint of neurasthenia will be aware that I had little to hope for from ordinary treatment. After my return to this country I went to a nursing home, and there, for some weeks, every care was lavished upon me, but to no effect. Further treatment in other establishments was just as devoid of result, and eventually I returned home a nervous wreck, still a victim of neurasthenia. Then my wife bought me a box of Dr. Cassell's Tablets, and the very first box gave me hope. I noticed an immediate improvement in my condition. But thirteen in my case was indeed a lucky number, for the baleful disease was banished completely by the time I had taken the thirteenth box, and I am now prepared to swear that I am sound and well. Ever since that time I have been doing my usual work, and I am not only ready to answer inquiries about my case, but would welcome them, for I owe a great debt of gratitude to Dr. Cassell's Tablets." Sold at 1s. 3d. and 3s. per box by all chemists.

RACING AT PHŒNIX PARK.

INTERESTING SPORT.

SYMMETRIAN AND LOW TIDE MAKE AMENDS.

ANTHONY'S DOUBLE.

The Phœnix Park Meeting on Saturday marked the conclusion of the racing season in the metropolitan area, and the wind-up was as successful as it was thoroughly enjoyable. The attendance was of average strength for a November fixture, and, with delightful weather prevailing, the company had a most pleasant experience, the racing being very interesting, whilst backers fared much better than for some time back, even though the last two events on the card resulted in what is known in the vernacular as "turn-ups." There was a good deal of fog in the city in the forenoon, but when the beautifully appointed course was reached the place was found to be bathed in sunshine, and a perfect view of the racing was obtainable.

A capital afternoon's sport was opened with the Welter Plate, in which Low Tide, who had displayed an opportunity of making amends for some time, and Colonel Chaloner Rex's three-year-old, taking command when Souderra dropped back beaten about a quarter of a mile from home, made light of the efforts of Quadrant, from whom he was in receipt of 23lb., to catch him. The honours were also well on the mark when they made Glossina their first choice for the Beer Park Plate, in which she managed at last to lose her maiden certificate; but it was only after a rattling race that she got the better of the "country" colt Zulu, who, it will be remembered, won Goola to a head at Prondstown Park last month.

Although we had thirteen runners for the Quick-step Plate, there was no judge to the wagering, seemed to be regarded more or less in the light of a match between Symmetrian and Blackladies, who at Leopardstown had finished second to Royal Coil and Mermaid respectively. Blackladies did not show reproduce that form, and failed to get into the first half-dozen; but, on the other hand, Symmetrian was off the mark in front straight, and holding command throughout, won a trifle easily from Orby Lass, who was far from disgraced in failing to concede 21lb. to the daughter of the defunct Symington, and close up with her came Miss Brian Boru, a hot favourite was forthcoming for the Maiden T.T.O. Plate in Bachelor's Heir, an own brother to that good horse, Wily Attorney, and at one time a shade of odds was laid on him, which of the others Lydeue attracted most support. Bachelor's Heir began a bit slowly, and, though running on at the finish, never got on striking terms with the leaders, of whom Corfe was the most prominent for nearly half a mile, when his bad day set, and Miss Druce, who was well backed at 5 to 2, drawing away, scored in decisive fashion.

She is trained by Anthony, who supplemented his laurels in the succeeding event, the Somerton Plate, a handicap for two-year-olds, which he won by the aid of the hitherto disappointing sweet Clematis, and who was one of the outsiders of the party. The favourite, True Friend, did not appear to get as well away as some of the others, and never flattered; but the same could not be said of Red Or, who had every chance if he was good enough. He, however, failed to stay, and in a thrilling finish Sweet Clematis prevailed over Magic Ring, the jockeys of both being seen to advantage. The end came with the Ashtown Plate, the start for which was one of the best we have seen for some time, but thirteen runners to get away is almost perfect line. On the strength of her second to Parclet the previous Saturday, Alaska was naturally greatly fancied, but she was beaten a long way from the end, and the winner turned to be Jo Cuttle-faced Bilsia, who commanded the position throughout, and incidentally gave T. M. Quirke his second success of the day in the saddle. Odds :—

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

His many friends will be glad to learn that Mr. F. Rogers, of Rathath, who has been ill for some time, has made a good recovery.

Donoghue has ridden the winner of the Liverpool Autumn Cup three years in succession—My Dear (1919), Square Measure (1920), Corporal (1921).

The Irish St. Leger winner, Kircubbin, who, as previously announced, has been sold to a French owner, left the Curragh on Saturday en route for France.

Riverside Fairy left Dublin on Saturday for Derby, where she runs for the Derby Cup on Friday, and will be ridden in that race by James Doyle, junior.

It is understood that a match has been arranged between Mr. Joe Widger's Nonchalante and Mr. F. Hayes's Merry Aldford, to be run over a mile at level weights.

A. Anthony, the Curragh trainer, brought off a double event at Phœnix Park on Saturday with Miss Druce and Sweet Clematis, and E. M. Quirke was twice successful in the saddle.

H. H. Beasley, who is still suffering from the effects of the shaking he received through the falling of Rutoath at Limerick, was unable to fulfil his riding engagements at Phœnix Park on Saturday.

The annual dinner of the York Gimcrack Club has been fixed to take place on Friday evening, December 2. The Earl of Zetland's three-year-old, Scamp, won the Gimcrack Stakes at the last York August Meeting by a head from Silpho, with Flaming Orb third a neck away, will be the principal guest.

LIVERPOOL.

ORPI'S SURPRISE.

GROSVENOR CUP.

HURDLE HANDICAP WON BY JUST FOR LUCK.

There is no question as to the immense popularity of steeplechasing at Aintree, and, in face of the importance of the flat racing events, most interest on Saturday centred in the Valentine Steeplechase. Only three of the nine starters finished, but that was not due to the fences being more formidable than usual, but probably to the fact that horses are not thoroughly wound up for jumping thus early.

In the Valentine Steeplechase field one usually looks for something likely for the Grand National, and the present winner, Chin Chin, gave a particularly attractive display, for as far as I could see he made no serious mistake, and it is a great performance to get round Aintree, as he did, in what I believe is his first attempt. He is only a five-year-old, so has plenty of time to develop before becoming an aspirant to Grand National honours. He succeeded where his Sandown conqueror, Daydawn, had failed earlier in the week.

It was a unique double which Duller and Coulthwaite brought off with Just for Luck in the Hurdle Race. The Hednesford trainer had not the same confidence as he had had in his candidate the previous day, as he remarked after the race: "I had not got him quite to my liking, but thought he had a chance if they ran the race to suit him. They cut each other's throats, and so mine won."

When a horse has run six times unplaced, and then comes out and wins a race of the importance of the Grosvenor Cup in the manner that Orpi did, the Stewards, in the interests of all concerned, should call for an explanation. Orpi was undoubtedly better handicapped than he has been for some time, and he has always done beat when the course has been at least yielding. The exceptionally hard going of the fast closing season has, no doubt, prevented him showing his proper form, but everyone does not know this, and, when all is said and done, the public have some interest in the matter. The price at which Orpi started suggests that stable confidence was anything but pronounced. In fact, I understand this was so.

There are few better sporting owners than Major Holliday, and the Autumn Foal Stakes was a nice race to on with Silpho, but I fancy the stable had much more confidence in Ogle's Grove colt, who put up such an attractive display in the Liverpool Nursery.

Corporal has not, as had been suggested, lost his form, for, thanks to a bit of brainy riding by Bullock, he cleverly won the Ormerod Plate.

I interviewed several jockeys with regard to their Leicester mounts on Monday, but there is a considerable amount of uncertainty prevailing.

PROSPECTS FOR TO-DAY.

The penultimate stage of the flat racing season will be entered upon at Leicester to-morrow, as usual, and a very fine meeting should be witnessed, weather permitting. NEWS SUMMARY.

The Prime Minister has received the Northern Cabinet's reply to the Government's proposals, but has not yet communicated with Sir James Craig on the subject.—(P. 5.)

Seven political prisoners escaped from Mountjoy Jail, Dublin, on Saturday evening. They were followed by auxiliary policemen, but succeeded in eluding them in the darkness.—(P. 5.)

Collections were made in nearly three hundred Protestant churches in the Dublin area yesterday on behalf of the city hospitals.—(P. 6.)

The Dublin County Council, at its meeting on Saturday, considered sweeping proposals for reductions in the salaries of its office staff and the wages of its roadmen.—(P. 6.)

Mr. Lupton, in the Dublin Police Court on Saturday, refused informations in the case in which John White, of Thurston road, Liverpool, was charged with having converted to his own use three bills, each for £10,000, which had been entrusted to him for the purchase of petrol. Accused was discharged.—(P. 6.)

About 150 armed men at Dunmurry, near Belfast, fired yesterday upon a motor car containing a district inspector and a sergeant of police. The fire was returned, and a man was seriously wounded in the neck.—(P. 5.)

Memorial Services were held in Protestant and Roman Catholic churches in Cork on Saturday on behalf of the men from that city who were killed in the war.—(P. 6.)

President Harding opened the Disarmament Conference at Washington on Saturday. One hundred millions in the United States, he declared, wanted less armaments and no war.—(P. 5.)

Mr. Hughes's plan for the reduction of armaments, which was presented to the Washington Conference, provides for a naval shipbuilding holiday for several years and the destruction within three months of sixty ships of war.—(P. 5.)

The Prince of Wales spent Saturday at Aden, where he was warmly received by the inhabitants. In the evening the Renown started on the last stage of the journey to Bombay.—(P. 5.)

Landru explained in court on Saturday that his villa at Gambais—to which, it is alleged, he lured his victims, murdered them, and burned the bodies—was damp, and that he installed a stove for warmth and cooking.—(P. 5.)

At Phœnix Park Races on Saturday the Quickstep Plate was won by Mr. W. O'Donohoe's Symmetrian, and the Somerton Plate by Mr. H. Lacy's Sweet Clematis.—(P. 3.)

MacSWINEY MEMORIAL.

Writing to the Press, the Bishop of Cork (Dr. Dowse) says:—"I see that my name is placed among the patrons of the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney Memorial Fund. When telephoned to by the Lord Mayor on Thursday, asking me to accept the position, I refused. I am at a loss to know how my name appeared on the list. I have written to the Lord Mayor asking him to have it removed."

CHEAPER BREAD.

Dublin housewives will welcome the announcement of a further reduction in the price of bread. The Dublin Master Bakers' Committee give notice that on and after to-day the price of the 2lb. loaf (delivered) will be 6d., and that of the 1lb. loaf (delivered) 3½d.

MR. COPE—A DENIAL.

The Press Association is authoritatively informed that there is no truth in a report published on Saturday morning that Mr. Cope, Assistant Under Secretary for Ireland, has been superseded. Mr. Cope has for some time been engaged at the Irish Office in London.

The American Plan.

The Washington Conference has opened in dramatic fashion. When the delegates assembled on Saturday they were addressed by Mr. Hughes, chief of the United States delegation, who promptly unfolded a detailed plan for a naval holiday and the reduction of existing naval armaments. Nobody expected that the American cards would be laid on the table so soon; nobody thought that such daring proposals would be made. Yet Mr. Hughes lost no time in preliminary speech-making, and confronted his astonished listeners with a cut-and-dried scheme, which, if accepted, will put an end to all building of capital ships for the next ten years, and result in the destruction of sixty-six of those already in commission. America is not asking her friends to do anything which she is not prepared to do herself. In fact, if Mr. Hughes's suggestions are carried out, the United States Navy will lose more ships than either the British or the Japanese Navies. Reduced to its simplest terms, the American proposal is as follows. No capital ships shall be bulit for the next ten years. Within three months after the agreement is signed the capital strengths of the British, American, and Japanese Fleets shall be 22, 18, and 10 respectively. In cruisers, flotilla leaders, and destroyers Britain and America shall retain each 450,000 tons, while Japan's share will be 270,000 tons. In submarines Britain and America shall keep each 90,000 tons, and in aeroplane carriers 80,000 tons; Japan's allowance in these two branches will be 40,000 and 48,000 tons respectively. The reduction of the three fleets to the proposed limits would entail the scrapping, in capital ships alone, of 1,878,000 tons.

Mr. Hughes's proposal would leave Britain and America on a par in everything except capital ships. In this important department Britain would have twenty-two ships, with a total tonnage of 600,000, and America eighteen ships, with a total tonnage of 500,000. Mr. Hughes goes so far as to specify the battleships to be retained by the three countries. He proposes that Britain shall keep King George, Centurion, Ajax, Benbow, Emperor of India, Iron Duke, Marlborough, and Tiger—all carrying 13.5-inch guns—Queen Elizabeth, Valiant, Warspite, Barham, Malaya, Royal Sovereign, Royal Oak, Ramillies, Resolution, Revenge, Renown, and Repulse—with 15-inch guns—Erin, with 13.5-inch guns, and, finally, Hood. All these ships have been built since 1910; but, of course, few, if any, of them can compare with the latest American ships, which mount 16-inch guns and have a displacement of 32,600 tons. On the other hand, as the fleets stand at present, Britain has thirty capital ships in all, while America has forty, and thirteen in process of construction. While, therefore, Britain would need to scrap only eight, in addition to the four new ships which have been sanctioned by Parliament, America's sacrifice would be no less than thirty-five. Japan's sacrifice would be the lowest of all. Her present programme aims at an establishment of sixteen first-class capital ships in 1923, of which ten may be retained. The net result of the whole arrangement, should it be accepted as it stands, would be to put the American and British Fleets on a basis of virtual equality and to give each of them an adequate preponderance over the naval strength of Japan.

That the British people will give their hearty approval to Mr. Hughes's proposals cannot be doubted. They know that they cannot hope to keep abreast of either America or Japan in a race for naval supremacy, and they have no desire to fight against anybody. The acceptance of the scheme would immediately lighten the burden of taxation. This year the Navy is costing some £82,500,000, and a substantial reduction in expenditure would be welcomed by everybody. Everything depends upon the attitude of Japan. If she agrees to accept the American plan, Britain certainly will not stand in the way of disarmament. America has proved now that she harbours no sinister designs against other nations. She is willing to make a drastic reduction in her naval forces if Britain and Japan agree to follow suit, and her proposals bear the hall-mark of sincerity on their face. Of course, before anything is done, the experts must have their say, and, doubtless, there will be a number of technical difficulties to be overcome before the plan can be put into effect. Details, however, are of small account, and if the three Great Powers can agree in principle, the success of the Conference will be assured. The great virtue of Mr. Hughes's proposals is that they are free from all ambiguity. Nobody can misunderstand them; the merest child in matters of diplomacy can grasp their full import at a glance. We still are of the opinion that the Far Eastern question should have been raised at the very outset of the Conference. Japan will not reduce her Navy until an understanding is reached in regard to China. In the meanwhile, however, Britain can improve her relations with the United States by her whole-hearted support of the new proposals.

Mixed Freights.

The authorities of the Sydney Zoo have shown a truly Colonial enterprise in shipping some eight hundred birds, beasts, and reptiles of all descriptions to London, where they will be disposed of to buyers from all parts of the world. It is whispered that the Curator of the Dublin Zoo has already gone over to London to get an early pick of the furred and feathered treasures to such modest extent as the limited funds of the Society permit; but the occasion is clearly one to unloose the purse strings of some Irish philanthropist. It will be many a long day, it is said, before a like opportunity will present itself of enlarging the collection of animals in Phœnix Park to something like the proportions that the only zoo in Ireland should enjoy. As it is, there is no limit to what Mr. Farrar may bring back in his carpet bag. It may be a podargus, a sort of nightjar with a mouth four sizes too big for it and long hairs to keep the daddy-long-legs that it has swallowed from walking out again. Or he may bring back a wallaby or a bird of paradise or a lung fish, a black swan, an opossum, a missionary-eating cassowary, or even a Tasmanian devil which is said to resemble a cross between a wild cat, a buzz saw, and a box of fire crackers. These things, however, have lost their charm for the Dublin citizen. A well conducted and strictly vegetarian "boomer" would be more to his liking.

With Care!

The news received in Paris on Saturday that a train was on its way from Hanover with 23,000 swarms of bees—a part of the loot that Germany is restoring under Clause 4 of the Reparations Clause of the Peace Treaty—may well have struck consternation to the heart of French officialdom. Was there here some hateful Hunnish plot to wreck the train, let us say, as it entered the Gare du Nord, and liberate 23,000 swarms of infuriated Bosch bees—half a million ferocious atoms of Schrecklichkeit—upon the gay capital's paralysed boulevardiers? But, even if the hand of Ludendorff and the revengeful Kaiser-true Prussians was not to be seen in the matter, the coming of this train with its cargo of living dynamite was enough to turn an official's hair grey. Accidents apart, the disposal of twenty-three thousand swarms of bees sounds like a Titanic task. No doubt, lists containing the names and addresses of the claimants to whom the ersatz swarms will be distributed have long since been prepared, and the precious train will continue on its way from town to town, from wayside station to wayside station, until the last consignment of bees is reported delivered and the relieved official, breathing a sight of relief, murmurs as he seeks his well-earned aperitif: "Vos non vobis, mellificatis, apes"—No longer will you put the Hun in honey, O bees.

Unhappy Austria.

Austria is making valiant efforts to keep afloat on the troubled sea of finance. She has been buoyed with promises and small gifts from the Great Powers, but she recognises that they cannot support her for an indefinite period. Her industrial machine is unable to lift the krone to a safe level, or even to check its downward course, and it has become obvious that, in order to save the ship, the "passengers" must be jettisoned. Altogether the tiny State has 263,000 employés. Of these 52,000 belong to the army and the police force. Of the others, some 160,000 do useful work and 51,000 do virtually nothing except draw their salaries. They are the remnants of the former Empire's Civil Service, and they have been told that they must find other vocations. About 15,000 of the older men will be pensioned; the others will get one or two years' salary, which, it is reckoned, will cost the State about twelve milliard kronen. What will happen to them? Most of the men are unfit for manual labour, and, even if they were fit, they could not find work in Austria. The professions may absorb a few of the younger men; but the majority must either starve or swell the endless stream of emigrants to the United States.

A Super-Telephone.

The address which President Harding delivered at the tomb of America's Unknown Warrior on Friday was heard not only by the great congregation that had gathered in the cemetery, but by thousands of persons in New York, Chicago, and San Francisco. On the stage from which the President spoke nothing could be seen but a small screen on which there was a box about nine inches square; but below the stage there was an immense and costly apparatus which enabled the multitude that had assembled in a hall at San Francisco to hear every word he uttered. Nothing but the cost prevented the speech from being heard in every city in the Kingdom. This new device opens up a vista of wonderful, but somewhat appalling, possibilities. In a general election it may enable some popular orator to address a score of audiences at the same time. An inexpert operator may mix the switches and drive an unhappy band of voters mad by connecting half-a-dozen speakers to the same hall at once. Again, the instrument may be used in the development of "open diplomacy." What a delightful entertainment it would be for their compatriots to hear Marquis Curzon and M. Briand discuss the Franco-Kemalist Treaty.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

YORK COTTAGE, SANDRINGHAM, NORFOLK, SUNDAY.

The King and Queen Alexandra, the Princess Mary, the Prince Henry, and the ladies and gentlemen in waiting attended Divine Service at Sandringham Church this morning. The Rev. A. Rowland Grant, Domestic Chaplain to the King, and the Rev. S. B. Baron, Curate at Sandringham, officiated, and the Bishop of Edmundsbury and Ipswich preached the sermon.

The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland and Viscountess FitzAlan, the Marquis and Marchioness of Londonderry, the Marquis and Marchioness of Sligo, the Earl and Countess of Arran, the Earl and Countess of Pembroke, the Earl and Countess of Donoughmore, the Earl and Countess of Bessborough, the Earl and Countess of Portarlington, and Lord and Lady Carson were among the guests at the afternoon reception held by the Marchioness Curzon of Kedleston at 1 Carlton House terrace. There was a large gathering of the members of the Diplomatic Corps, including the Ambassadors, Ministers, and Chargés d'Affaires of the various foreign States.

Yesterday was the fiftieth birthday of the ninth Duke of Marlborough, who in 1892 succeeded to the historic title which was conferred on the victorious General Lord Churchill in recognition of his triumphs at Blenheim, Ramillies, Oudenarde, and Malplaquet. The seventh Duke was Lord Lieutenant of Ireland from 1876 to 1880, during which time his son, the late Lord Randolph Churchill, acted as one of his private secretaries, and the late Lady Randolph Churchill was a prominent figure at the Irish Court. As little children Mr. Winston Churchill and his brother spent several years at the Viceregal Lodge.

The Earl of Dunraven has returned to Adare Manor from London, where he has been staying for a month. Lord and Lady Templemore have left London for Paris, where Lady Fermor-Hesketh has also arrived. Sir Bryan and Lady Mahon, who have been staying in London for a fortnight, returned to Mullaloden, Kildare, on Saturday. The Earl of Kenmare left Dublin on Saturday for London.

Sir John and Lady Leslie, who have spent the autumn at Glaslough, Co. Monaghan, have let their London house (46 Great Cumberland place) to Miss Ladenberg, who is giving a series of entertainments there. Her last musical party was most successful, and among her guests were the Earl and Countess of Ossory, who are settled at 19 Gloucester place for the winter.

A marriage has been arranged, and will shortly take place, between David Joseph Atkinson, only son of A. J. Atkinson, of Broughton-in-Dale, Brough, Yorkshire, and Sylvia Louise Maud, eldest daughter of Francis S. Low, Kilshane, Tipperary.

PAINT AND PRICES ON THE RIVIERA.

Paint, paint, paint! everywhere and on everything: that is the stranger's first impression of the Côte d' Azur just now, before the season has opened officially. He gets others of a different nature later.

The early arrival finds more than half the shops and nearly all the hotels tightly shuttered—the owners have not yet returned from the summer resorts farther north; but soon a change makes itself felt. Nice, Monaco, Mentone, Monte Carlo—all the towns of the littoral, which have been asleep and half-deserted during the latter months, now begin to throw off their lethargy, and prepare for the hoped-for harvest of the winter, and the first outward and visible sign of returning life is—paint!

On every side you see it, blue, green, and white, but generally white or cream. Jean and Pierre in their dozens swarm over the shop-fronts, busily removing the old coat and putting on the new, and as one watches them at work one cannot help comparing their active and business-like methods with the more leisurely efforts of their British prototypes.

* * * * * * * *

Large notices, "Attention! Peinture Fraiche," make their appearance; the window is polished up, the ladders removed, and Jean and Pierre turn their attention elsewhere, and start all over again. All this paint is, of course, for the English and American visitors who, like flies to a lamp, will be swarming to the sun of the South during the next few weeks. The painters gone, the blind goes down for a day or so—seldom is a window dressed coram populo—and we know that the bait is being prepared.

When all is ready, up goes the blind, the door is opened, and we are at liberty to gaze upon the goods so temptingly displayed, and to resist, if we can, the temptation to inquire within the price of some particular article. Some shops, but not many, price the majority of the articles displayed in the window, but generally no marking is done.

One trick, fairly common in drapery windows, is to show, say, three qualities or kinds of material. The two inferior qualities are priced, but the best quality is not, and, low be it whispered, we are credibly informed that the price asked for the unmarked cloth depends, first, upon the nationality, and, secondly, on the general appearance, or, as it was described to me, the "cash possibilities," of the inquirer! Also, it is no uncommon thing to see absolutely identical articles in different windows marked at widely different prices.

Writing from the visitor's point of view, and having due regard for the exchange, I have come to the conclusion that things are fairly expensive on the Riviera, especially clothes and hats, but the nature of the "souvenir"—the sort of thing one sends home.

Tortoiseshell, for instance, abounds in every shape and form; combs, ornamental and utilitarian; pin trays, slave bracelets, umbrella handles, card cases, &c.; but the price is almost prohibitive. A tortoiseshell cigarette case, not even silver-mounted, costs 550 francs, or just £10; a frame for a vanity bag costs about the same, and the bag, completed in brocade, runs to another 100 or 150 francs; a plain comb, 50 francs; ornamented, anything up to 400.

Coral is another common form of souvenir, in the shape of ear-rings, brooches, rings, and necklaces; most of it, especially in the more delicate shades of pink, is very pretty, but the price asked far exceeds the value. Bead necklaces are to be found in almost every window, and in an enormous range, both as regards material and price, from glass, plain or coloured, at 8 francs, to ivory and amber at 850.

* * * * * * * *

From what I can learn from people who were here, the hotel and shop keepers rather over-did it as regards prices last year, and a great many visitors went away determined not to return this season. I cannot say how far this is true, but certain it is, that there are a great number of villas showing "To be Sold or Let" notices, and from conversation with proprietors of hotels and papers I have gathered that the hotels are not expecting such a rush as in 1920.

The Italian Riviera, on the other hand, is, I believe, almost crowded out already. Of course, the exchange partly explains this, but I think

FOR DISARMAMENT.

SCRAPPING THE BATTLESHIPS.

PROPOSED TEN-YEAR NAVAL HOLIDAY.

The Disarmament Conference, which may revolutionise the world's naval programmes, was opened by President Harding at Washington on Saturday.

In a speech which has created a profound impression, the President declared that a Government failed when excessive cost robbed the people of happiness, and that one hundred millions in the United States wanted less armaments and no war.

In good conscience America was eager to meet the other nations frankly and to invite and to offer co-operation. He hoped for a mergence of minds committing all of them to less preparation for war and more enjoyment of fortunate peace.

They should act together to remove the causes of apprehension, and this was not to be done in intrigue. If, he declared, in conclusion, the finer sentiments were not urging them, the cold, hard facts of excessive cost and the eloquence of economics would urge them to reduce their armaments.

Mr. Hughes's plan for the reduction of naval power goes much farther than had been anticipated. It amounts to a ten years' naval holiday and the destruction of sixty-six capital ships.

It proposes that within three months after agreement three leading naval Powers shall possess the following capital ships:—Great Britain, 22; United States, 18; and Japan, 10.

The members of the various Naval Missions believe that, even if it is eventually modified, Mr. Hughes's plan will form a splendid basis of discussion.

NAVAL HOLIDAY.

WASHINGTON, Saturday.

The outstanding feature of Mr. Hughes's plan outlined at the Conference were a ten years' naval holiday, and the immediate destruction of 66 capital fighting ships of an aggregate of over 1,878,000 tons.

Within three months after agreement the naval establishments of the three leading Naval Powers shall consist of the following designated ships—Great Britain, 22; United States, 18; Japan, 10.

Under a detailed plan the total tonnage of the cruisers, flotilla leaders, and destroyers of each Power would be fixed as follows:—

Great Britain, 450,000 tons; United States, 450,000; Japan, 270,000. The total tonnage of submarines allowed to Great Britain is 90,000, United States 90,000, and Japan 40,000. The total tonnage of aeroplane carriers allowed to Great Britain would be 80,000, United States 80,000, and Japan 48,000. In each case no Government whose present tonnage exceeds the prescribed limit would be required to scrap such excess until replacements had begun.

Cruisers 17 years old would be replaced by new construction. Similarly destroyers, flotilla leaders, and submarines would be replaced when 12 years old. The limitation of aeroplane construction is not given in detail. Existing unarmed surface craft under 5,000 tonnage are excepted from terms of the agreement.

All auxiliary surface craft whose keels already laid down would be carried to completion. Each Power as party to the agreement would bind itself to inform the others regarding all details of construction and replacement.

A summary of the results of the agreement as it affects capital ships is stated in the following terms in the American plan.

If the terms of this agreement are adopted then the United States, Great Britain, and Japan agree that their navies, three months after making this agreement, shall consist of the following capital ships:—

United States—Maryland, California, Tennessee, Idaho, Mississippi, New Mexico, Arizona, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Nevada, Texas, New York, Arkansas, Wyoming, Utah, Florida, North Dakota, and Delaware—18 ships with a tonnage of half a million tons.

Great Britain—Royal Sovereign, Royal Oak, Resolution, Ramillies, Revenge, Queen Elizabeth, Warspite, Valiant, Barham, Malaya, Benbow, Emperor of India, Iron Duke, Marlborough, Erin, King George V., Centurion, New Hood, Renown, Repulse, and the Tiger—a total of 22 with a tonnage of 600,000.

FAR-REACHING PLAN.

SPLENDID BASIS OF DISCUSSION.

WASHINGTON, Saturday.

Mr. Hughes's proposals for the limitation of naval armaments are regarded by all the delegates as most dramatic, and far more severe than had been expected. It was recognised, however, there seeks general unity of opinion that the proposals, even if possibly finally modified, will form a splendid basis of discussion, and that Mr. Hughes was justified in stating at the outset the maximum cuts contemplated. Admiral Lord Beatty is intensely interested in the proposals, but declares himself unable to advance any opinion until he has had an opportunity to examine them more thoroughly.

The members of the British Naval Mission are much surprised at the far-reaching nature and preciseness of detail of Mr. Hughes's memorandum, and the whole of the week-end till Tuesday morning, when the Conference reassembles, will be spent in detailed discussion between the various members of the British delegation until all opinions have been consulted and the matter canvassed from all points.

At a reunion of British and American officers who served under him during the war, Lord Beatty declared that as long as the United States and Great Britain stick together civilisation would live.

Admiral Rodman expressed the hope that the American and British nations might always stand together.

HER CARDS ON THE TABLE.

AN EXCELLENT BEGINNING.

M. Briand emerged from the Conference in animated conversation, and declared: "It is an excellent beginning. Mr. Hughes has closed his cards with realities, and has laid down a straightforward proposal."

Signor Schanzer, head of the Italian delegation, eulogised Mr. Hughes's clear, courageous statements, saying, "the sincerity of America in laying all her cards upon the table before the world is worthy of all praise."

According to a telegram from Washington on Saturday, Mr. Balfour described Mr. Hughes's statement as a bold, statesmanlike utterance, pregnant with infinite possibilities. He also declared himself to be much impressed with the clearness of Mr. Hughes's views, and is most hopeful of satisfactory results.

THE KING'S WISHES.

BRITISH NATION'S SYMPATHY.

WASHINGTON, Sunday.

King George has sent the following telegram to President Harding:—"On the occasion of the opening of the International Conference at Washington I again send to you my most sincere good wishes for the success of its deliberations. The sympathy and goodwill of the whole British people will be with the Conference in its labours for securing the maintenance of peace."

LORD CURZON'S TELEGRAM.

BRITISH CO-OPERATION ASSURED.

Lord Curzon has sent the following message to Mr. Hughes, Secretary of State:—"I cannot allow the Washington Conference to open without sending you an assurance of my earnest desire to be of any assistance that I can in reaching a satisfactory permanent settlement of the questions about to be dealt with. You may rely on His Majesty's Government doing all in its power to promote the realisation of the high hopes with which the Conference meets."

FRENCH PRESIDENT'S HOPE

FUTURE PROSPERITY OF THE WORLD.

President Millerand has sent a telegram to President Harding, associating the whole of France with the solemn homage being rendered by the people of the United States to the American soldiers who fell on French soil, and expressing the hope that the Conference just commenced would contribute in the largest measure to assure to the world a future of prosperity, justice, and concord.

NOT DOOMED TO FAILURE.

Reuter's Correspondent says:—As the result of inquiries made among members of the various delegations, it would seem as if the American proposal were not doomed to failure.

M. Briand declared that France, as a matter of fact, was not directly interested in the question of naval disarmament. Like views were expressed by the Italian delegates.

HUMANITY'S CRY.

HUNGERING FOR RELIEF.

At the opening of the Disarmament and Pacific Conference on Saturday, after declaring his gratification at the presence of the delegates, the President said:—

"It is not possible to over-appraise the importance of such a Conference, and it is no unseemly boast and no disparagement of the other nations which, though not represented, are held in the highest respect, to declare that the conclusions of this body will have signal influence on all human progress on the fortunes of the world. Here is a meeting, I can well believe, which is an earnest of the awakened conscience of twentieth-century civilisation. It is not a convention of remorse nor a session of sorrow. It is not a conference of victors to define terms of settlement, nor is it a council of nations seeking to re-make human kind. It is rather a coming together from all parts of the earth to apply the better attributes of mankind to minimise the faults in our international relationships.

Speaking as official sponsor for the invitation, I think I may say the call is not of the United States alone, but rather it is reported that the war-wearied world struggling for restoration, lingering and thirsting for better relationships of humanity cries for relief and craving for assurance of lasting peace. It is easy to understand this world-wide aspiration. The glory of triumph, rejoicing in achievement. And love of liberty, the devotion of country, the end of sorrow, the burden of debt, the desolation of ruin—all these are appraised alike in all lands. Here in the United States we have but freshly turned from the burial of the Unknown American Soldier, when the nation sorrowed while paying him honour. Whether it was spoken or not, a hundred million of our people were summarising the inexcusable cause and the incalculable cost, of unspeakable sacrifice, and inutterable sorrow, and there was the ever-impelling question—How can humanity pardy or God forgive? Human hate demands no such toll; ambition and greed must be denied it. If misunderstanding must take the blame, then let us banish it, and let understanding rule and make good-will regnant everywhere.

STAGGERING WITH DEBT.

All of us demand liberty and justice. There cannot be one without the other, and sight must be held the unquestioned possession of all peoples. Inherent rights are of God, and the tragedies of the world originate in their attempted denial. The wish to deny or limit their enjoyment by arming to defend or deny them when simple sanity calls for their recognition through common understanding. Ons, of the casualties of the world—the same new fellowships, new convictions, new aspirations. It is ours to make the most of them. The world is staggering with debt and needs its burden lifted. Humanity, which has been shocked at the wanton destruction, would minimise the agencies of that destruction.

Contemplating the measureless cost of war and the continuing burden of armament, all thoughtful people wish for a real limitation of armaments, and would like war outlawed. In fair reflection the world is burdened by hundreds of millions, who pay in peace an die in war, wish their statesmen to turn expenditures for destruction into means of construction aimed at a higher state for those who live and those who follow after. It is not alone that the world cannot readjust itself and cast aside its terror of burdens without relief from the leaders of men. War has grown progressively cruel and more destructive from the first recorded conflict to this pregnant day, and the reverse order would more become our boasted civilisation.

HIGHER HOPES.

"NONE WANT WAR."

Gentlemen of the Conference, the United States welcomes you with unselfish hands. We harbour no fears; we have no sordid ends to serve; we suspect no enemy; we contemplate or apprehend no conquest. Content with what we have, we seek nothing which is another's. We only wish to do with you that finer and nobler thing which no nation can do alone: we wish to sit with you at the table of international understanding and good-will. In good conscience we are eager to meet you frankly, and we invite and offer co-operation.

The public demands a sober contemplation of the existing order, and a realisation that there can be no cure without sacrifice, not by one of us, but by all of us. I do not mean surrendered rights or narrowed freedom, or denied aspirations or ignored national necessities. The Republic would no more ask for these than it would give them. No pride need be humbled and no nationality submerged, but I would have a mergence of minds, committing all of us to less preparation for war and more enjoyment of fortunate peace. Higher hopes come out of the spirit of our coming together.

It is but just to recognise varying needs and peculiar positions. Nothing can be accomplished in disregard of national apprehensions. Rather we should act together to remove causes of apprehensions.

BURDEN OF COMPETITION.

If finer sentiments were not urging, the cold hard facts of excessive cost and the eloquence of economics would urge us to reduce our armaments. If the concept of the better order does not appeal, then let us ponder the burden and blight of continued competition. It is not to be denied that the world has strong alone through the lesson of the war. Some like to take this the earliest opportunity of assuring the people of Northern Ireland that the Northern Cabinet are absolutely unanimous in the finding at which they have arrived.

They are as determined as ever that if the allegiance of Southern Ireland is to be purchased the price to be paid shall not consist of the sacrifice of any of the rights, whether territorial or administrative, recently conferred on the Northern Parliament, and that while they are satisfied that the Northern Province is absolutely unswerving in its allegiance to the Crown and its devotion to the best interests of the Empire, they will never submit to any authority being placed—either directly or indirectly—above the Northern Parliament that would in any way detract from the authority exercised by His Majesty through the Imperial Parliament.

Moreover, it is perfectly clear that if the position of the powers at present reserved to the Imperial Parliament is to be altered, it can only be done by the transfer of similar powers to the Northern Parliament, and the expression "Dominion Government" must always be construed in the light of Ulster's remaining a separate and distinct unit in the free nations composing the British Empire.

The people of Northern Ulster could make would be to accept Dominion Home Rule for herself, but as a separate and distinct unit. In any case we expect from the Imperial Parliament that if they, in order to restore peace in Southern Ireland, have to give any terms which are more advantageous than are already possessed by the Northern Parliament, equally advantageous terms should be extended to Ulster.

CROYDON ORANGEMEN'S PROTEST.

At the annual celebration, on Saturday, of the two Croydon Orange Lodges, a letter was read from Mr. W. Coote, M.P., Grand Master of the Order in England, in which he urged every Protestant to be firm and take his stand on the side of the principles of Britain was now to be torn from the treachery which was enveloping QUE[illegible] Coote indicated that the question of meeting in London of Orangemen and 6.45 to protest against the treachery [illegible]o present Government," was under con- [illegible]ation.

Mr. D. Catt, Provincial Grand Master for the Metropolitan District, who presided, said that so far from trusting Sinn Feiners, their own British kith and kin could not now be trusted. The Government made solemn declarations years ago that it had gone so far, and would not go any further; but now it had conceded everything which it had said before it would not concede.

Rev. A. E. Hughes, Vicar of St. James's, Clapham, said that he thanked God with all his heart for the firmness shown in the past few hours by Sir James Craig and the Ulster Cabinet.

LAND PURCHASE.

A conference on the subject of land purchase was held under the auspices of the Ulster Farmers' Union at the head offices, 5 Royal Avenue, Belfast—Major A. M'Cormick presiding. The attendance included delegates representing the unbought tenants in various areas of Ulster.

A letter of apology was read from the Right Hon. E. M. Archdale, Minister of Agriculture, for Northern Ireland, who had promised to be present at the conference, but had found it impossible owing to the necessity of his being in London in connection with political matters.

After a discussion, in which a number of delegates present took part, a unanimous resolution was passed, to be sent to the members of the Northern Cabinet at present in London, stating that no settlement of the Irish question should be accepted which did not specifically and expressly include provision for the immediate completion of land purchase in Ireland by the Imperial Government, and protesting against the failure of that Government to implement its specific pledges on the subject. The resolution further protested against the continued and grievous injustices from which unbought tenants are suffering, and demanded an early removal of the anomalies that exist as a result of the failure of the Government to redeem its promises.

A deputation was appointed to go to London, if necessary, and if such a course be deemed desirable, to press forward the claims of the unpurchased tenants in every possible way, and to express their grievances.

MR. RONALD M'NEILL AND THE COALITION.

Mr. Ronald McNeill, addressing his constituents at Canterbury on Saturday, announced that if he sought re-election at the general election he should do so as an Independent Conservative, not as a supporter of the Coalition. He criticised the weakness of the Coalition in repressing extravagance and also in their dealings with Russia and Mr. Labour Party, and said that the Government, in bargaining with the Sinn Feiners, had gone back on their pledges to the Ulster Party.

THE AUXILIARY DIVISION.

A Londonderry message says:—Should the present Irish negotiations result in a settlement, the Auxiliary Police will become a Colonial force.

BIRD EVOLUTION.

FROM CREEPING TO FLYING.

The descent of birds from the reptilian monsters of pre-historic days was traced by Professor Gardiner, D.Sc., in a lecture, entitled "From Creeping to Flight," which he delivered at the opening meeting of the session of the Scientific and Industrial Society of the Royal College of Science for Ireland, in the College on Saturday evening.

The lecture was illustrated by lantern slides, and a number of these showed the similarity between the construction of the skeletons of birds and of the monsters of the past.

One of the pictures was of a griffin vulture. While the feathery covering clothed the body, the lecturer said, it was very scant on the head, and the feet were strongly scaled. They then asked what other creatures might possibly be regarded as relations of the birds, and that had scaled feet. They knew that birds were hatched from large eggs, and they asked what other creatures were raised from eggs. There were crocodiles, alligators, lizards, and serpents, all of which were regarded interests as reptiles.

Could it possibly be true that reptiles and birds were related? While the reptile had a long mountain tail, in modern birds the tail was greatly reduced, the visible tail being made by the quills. Fossils of the oldest birds found in sandstone in the Continent showed that they were very different from the birds of to-day. They had teeth in their jaws, and long tails, with the feathers arranged in series along either side.

The giant dinosaur, sixty or one hundred feet in length, differed from most modern reptiles in having the power of walking with its body off the ground, while some of the smaller kinds were able to leap in the air. The leg and hip girdle were arranged in the same way as they were arranged in modern birds, and in years to come fresh discoveries, it was hoped, would be made, which would enable the big dinosaurs and birds to be traced to some common stock.

"We know enough to-day," he said, "to bring home to us the remarkable conclusion that the bird, with its feathers, its beauty, and its charm, is a transformed and glorified reptile. The race has passed from creeping to flight."

Professor Carpenter also dealt with the development of caterpillars into butterflies, and with bats.

A cordial vote of thanks was passed to Professor Carpenter, on the motion of Mr. P. B. Roberts, seconded by Mr. A. J. Crosbie.

The lecture was followed by a concert.

OBITUARY.

MR. JAMES ALEXANDER.

News has been received in Belfast of the death in Quebec of Mr. James Alexander, who for many years was a well-known solicitor in Belfast. Mr. Alexander practised largely in the Bankruptcy Court, and only recently left for Canada owing to ill-health. He was a brother of Sir Thomas Alexander, a member of the Belfast Corporation, and was father of Dr. Marion Alexander, the well-known Irish golfer. At one time he enjoyed a reputation of being one of the best sprinters in Ireland, and for two seasons he was captain of the Portwilliam Golf Club.

THE DANGER OF A SIMPLE COUGH OR COLD.

Influenza, Bronchitis, and Pneumonia would be practically unknown if simple coughs and colds were taken in hand on their first appearance. Neglected a cold is not so much a cough or cold itself as in what it may lead to. No other simple ailment is capable of such rapid development, and no other can become so deep-seated so swiftly. The quickest and most certain way of dealing with a cough or cold is to take Bitrate of Tar. Never ignore coughs or colds, for they are dangerous to yourself as well as to others. Bitrate gives instant relief in even the worst cases, and quickly loosens the germ-laden phlegm, which always makes your cough or cold worse. Bitrate of Tar clears the head in a wonderful manner, and makes your voice clear as a bell; it can be obtained from all chemists at 1s. 1d. a bottle, from which it will be seen that it is inexpensive as well as highly efficient.

NOTE.—For those desiring larger quantities for family use, the 2s. 6d. size (concentrated form) is more economical, as it will make half a pint of Bitrate of Tar merely by the addition of water.

A CLEAN SWEEP.

BIG REDUCTIONS IN SALARIES.

OFFICES ABOLISHED.

The Dublin County Council, at its adjourned quarterly meeting on Saturday last, adopted a report which will result in extensive reductions in salaries and wages and also in changes in the staff.

The Chairman, Mr. H. Friel, presided, and the report, which was made by a Committee of the whole Council, contained the following recommendations:—

"Secretary's Department.—That as from 1st December, 1921, the Secretary's bonus be adjusted so that his total remuneration for the current local financial year, including payments made under the headings "Voters' Lists" and "Jurors' Lists," shall not exceed £1,000.

"That Mr. R. Cowell be superannuated at the end of the current calendar year, and that the duties of accountant, hitherto performed by him, be carried out from the date of his superannuation by Mr. J. V. Lawless, assistant secretary. At present Mr. Cowell has a salary of £390 per annum and Mr. Lawless £300 per annum. There does not appear to be any necessity for two officers carrying salaries of this magnitude. Under the arrangement suggested the duties of assistant secretary and accountant will be carried out at a total cost of £500 per annum.

"That the bonuses at present enjoyed by Messrs. Roper, Doherty, Cahill, and Geary be reduced by 20 per cent. as from 1st December, 1921; that the bonus of Miss McDermott, typist, be reduced by £7 10s. per annum as from 1st December, 1921; that the weekly remuneration of Mrs. Pierce, housekeeper, be reduced by 15s. as from 12th inst.; that the weekly remuneration of Mr. W. Tramley, hall porter, be reduced by 7s. 6d. as from 12th inst.

"County Surveyor's Department.—That the bonus of the County Surveyor be reduced by 20 per cent. as from 1st December, 1921; that the bonuses of Messrs. Downing, Smith, and Clancy be reduced by 20 per cent. as from 1st December, 1921.

"Roadsmen, Gangers, and Overseers.—That the surfacemen's wages, in view of the lower cost of living now prevailing, be reduced from 58s. to 52s. per week as from 12th inst.; that the gangers' wages be reduced by 6s. per week as from 12th inst.. The gangers were granted the same flat increase of 15s. as the surfacemen in August, 1920, and hence they should suffer the same reduction now. That the overseers be paid as from 12th inst. the weekly wage current and paid immediately prior to the August, 1920, resolution, affecting the surfacemen's wages; that the services of Messrs. Webster and Jones, overseers, be dispensed with as from the end of the present month.

"Horse Labour.—That the hire of the horse, man and cart be reduced from £1 to 16s. per diem."

The Committee considered that a fair standard wage in terms of pre-war currency should be fixed for the roadmen, and that their wages in future should be adjusted automatically from time to time on the basis of the British Board of Trade regarding the cost of living. It did not appear that these figures were applicable to Ireland in their absolute magnitude, but their rate of change would nevertheless form a reasonably suitable basis for the purpose outlined. To draw up such a scheme and to complete the work of economy, especially by way of preparation for next year's estimates, it was recommended that the Committee should continue its work.

The report, it was added, did not pretend to be exhaustive, and certainly much still remained to be done.

INFORMATIONS REFUSED

IN £30,000 BILLS CASE.

The hearing of the petrol case concluded in Dublin Police Court on Saturday, when John White, of Thurston road, Liverpool, who had been charged with fraudulent practices in relation to bills of exchange for £30,000, was discharged from custody.

The case sought to be made against accused was that, having been entrusted by a group of Dublin business men to purchase on their behalf a cargo of petrol, he had illegally converted to his own use three bills of exchange for £10,000 each, which he had received from the group in connection with the transaction. The case had been at hearing for nearly three weeks, the evidence having concluded on Friday.

Mr. Dudley White, K.C. (instructed by Mr. Davis) submitted on Saturday that the charge against the accused had been established, and that informations should be returned against him.

Mr. E. H. Burne, who defended the accused, argued that those who were behind the prosecution had failed in their object, and that they had contradicted each other in the witness box to such an extent that it would be unsafe to rely on their evidence.

Mr. Lupton, in giving judgment, said that he had followed the evidence to the best of his ability, and gone through the depositions carefully, and having considered the law applicable to cases of the kind, he felt that he would not be justified in returning the accused for trial.

Informations were accordingly refused, and the accused was discharged.

ACUTE PRIVATION.

WORK OF ROOMKEEPERS' SOCIETY.

It was the means of saving thousands from acute privation, and many who were to-day successful men and women owed their good fortune to the timely aid rendered by its members.

This tribute was paid to the Sick and Indigent Roomkeepers' Society by the Rev. W. B. Costello, O.P., in preaching the annual charity sermon on behalf of that institution at the Pro-Cathedral, Marlborough street, Dublin, on Sunday.

The Society, he said, was the oldest charitable society in Dublin. Founded in 1790, it has endeavoured through the succeeding years to carry on its work of mercy. Carried on in strict non-sectarian lines, it was a charity that appealed to all who gave some little thought to the burdens of the poor. As a social asset it was invaluable, greater even than was commonly thought. It not only relieved the material wants of the poor of the city, but it infused also a spirit of self-help. But for its efforts Dublin's distressed families would be left in unrelieved misery.

The number of poor whom the Society relieves was increasing year by year. Many were seeking help owing to the prevalence of unemployment. Generous help was needed by this beneficent Society. The Society was hampered by a grievous load of debt, a condition of affairs which had to be remedied, especially as the number of cases to be dealt with each year reached any figure from 17,000 to 20,000. There were 7,000 or more families involved.

Animated by the truest Christian charity, the members of the Roomkeepers' Society helped the poor, the outcast, and the distressed.

ENGLAND'S DEPENDENCE ON IRELAND.

Mr. Darrell Figgis addressed a meeting in Enniskillen yesterday and outlined the problems that would confront them when Ireland was severed from England. He believed that the future would prove the complete control of imports and exports, and currency would be the basis of liberty.

England would wish to be allowed to import certain goods into Ireland free of duty, but they would stubbornly resist any such arrangement. Ireland must have her liberty to trade where she wished. Mr. Lloyd George had spoken of a slight trade revival in England. That revival came from Ireland, and was due to the truce. During her "war" with Ireland, England had been heading for disaster, but the truce had been the best business proposition that she had negotiated for a long time.

Referring to Ulster, Mr. Figgis pointed out how much that part of Ireland had to lose by remaining outside a purely Irish administration separated from the Empire.

EFFECTS OF CORK RAIL STRIKE.

There was no new development on Saturday in the strike of employés of the Bandon, Macroom, and Muskerry Railways. The lines still remain closed, and the districts served by them are receiving most inadequate food supplies by motor transport.

In addition to the men who went on strike on November 5th, a large number of railway-men became affected on Saturday owing to the termination of a week's notice served on them by the railway companies.

The Very Rev. Canon Elwes, of the Diocese of Northampton, has been appointed Roman Catholic Bishop of Northampton.

HELPING THE HOSPITALS.

BISHOP'S TRIBUTE TO THEIR WORK.

The exhortation "To do good and to distribute forget not" had a special significance for congregations in upwards of 300 Protestant churches in the Dublin area yesterday. It was Hospital Sunday, a day on which collections are made in the churches on behalf of the Dublin hospitals—schools of science and practice in which physicians and surgeons are trained for the work of relieving the sick and suffering—which afford to the poor the highest skill that is within the reach of the wealthiest. Hospitals, like individuals, have felt the financial strain of post-war conditions, and several of them are in great need of funds. A sum of £5,000 is required this year for the Fund, and it is hoped that this figure will be realised as the result of the forty-eighth annual appeal yesterday.

The Bishop of Ossory paid a high tribute to the Dublin hospitals in the course of his sermon in Christ Church Cathedral yesterday morning. The words of his text were: "The whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain" (Romans, viii., 22). Starting with the bedrock fact that pain was an essential element of our life on earth, the Bishop said that the pain of the world had been enormously increased by human carelessness and sin. Let them not say that God sent disease or pain upon them as punishment for sin. Man, by his neglect of God's laws or by his breach of God's laws might bring pain upon himself, but God did not inflict it. Having said this, let them not forget that God used pain for the development of man's higher capacities and powers. Our Heavenly Father willed that his children should have health, strength, and happiness both of body and of soul, and he could never think that it could ever be pleasing to Him that anybody should suffer. Christ healed the sick, and it was the duty of men and women to follow in His steps and do all in their power to relieve pain.

CLOSER CO-OPERATION.

What they wanted was closer co-operation between religion and science in the matter of healing, one supporting and strengthening the other. Was not that what Hospital Sunday sought for? They were asked that day to support the physicians and surgeons and nurses of the hospitals of Dublin in their glorious work of relieving pain. Let them think what the hospitals meant to the City of Dublin; what it meant to some poor sufferer from some squalid, noisy tenement house to be taken into a bright and airy hospital and there to be skilfully treated and tenderly nursed. The parochial clergy all knew what the hospitals were doing. He could say for himself that when he was a parochial clergyman in Dublin, over and over again he wrote to the Lord Lieutenant asking them to give personal care and attention to cases in which he was interested, and in every case his appeal had been met with the utmost consideration and kindness.

What he personally owed to the medical profession he could never express by words. "Do not believe the libel which you sometimes hear about hospitals with regard to the treatment of patients," concluded the Bishop. "They are blessed homes. Ever Ireland has known it; most blessed homes of sympathy and love. They deserve your strongest support. I ask you to make a real sacrifice to-day in supporting them on behalf of your suffering brothers and sisters, in the name of the great healer, Christ Himself."

In the Methodist and Presbyterian churches also references were made to the work of the hospitals.

Those who were unable to attend any of the Services yesterday can send subscriptions to the Treasurer of the Fund or to the Secretaries. The Treasurer is Mr. J. T. Pim, 22 William street, Dublin.

NATIONAL LIBRARY.

WORK OF THE STAFF.

In a notice which has been posted in the National Library the Trustees explain the reasons why they are unable to accede to the requests which have been made to them to keep open the Library until 10 p.m. Briefly, they said, the staff allowed by the Treasury is not sufficient for any addition to the hours of service in the Reading Room, on account of the great arrears of work in other departments, with which it has become imperative to deal forthwith.

The duties of the staff are twofold—(1) Direct service to the public over the counter of the Reading Room; (2) preparatory work in the store-rooms, on which the efficiency of the direct service chiefly depends. The preparatory work includes checking, registration, arrangement, repairs, mounting, cutting, stamping, the preparation of catalogues, subject-indexes and lists, not only of books in the ordinary sense, but of great collections of maps and prints and drawings, manuscripts, pamphlets, newspapers, and patent specifications. This work, it is obvious, makes a much larger demand on the staff than does the Reading Room service.

Owing to the insufficiency of the staff, which has been maintained at practically the standard established in 1904, the arrears in the preparatory collection has been increasing rapidly year by year, the arrears of the preparatory work have accumulated to an extent which seriously threatens the efficiency of the Library. Some 80,000 books, etc., await preparation for use by the public. These include many of the most valuable collections in the Library, and in the interests of readers they must be dealt with without further delay.

The restrictions imposed by the Curfew regulations permitted a curtailment of the Reading Room service, and made a portion of the staff available for this necessary task. To return to the longer hours of opening would involve the discontinuance of the work thus begun, and a further accumulation of arrears. This, in the judgment of the Trustees, would seriously prejudice the interests which the Library is established to serve. Unless an increase in the staff, for which the Trustees have repeatedly applied, is granted, they cannot for the present lengthen the total hours of service in the Reading Room.

But they recognise that there exists a body of serious readers whose occupations make it impossible for them to use the Library except in the evenings; in order to meet their needs the Trustees propose that the Library shall remain open until 10 p.m. on two evenings (Tuesday and Friday) in each week, the loss of time in work on arrears involved by this change being met by a correspondingly late opening to the public on those two days—namely, 2 p.m. When substantial progress has been made in dealing with the arrears of preparatory work the Trustees may be able to sanction a return to longer hours of public service. With their present facilities the above time-table is the utmost they can hope to attain.

ORMOND BAZAAR.

SCOTTISH CLERGYMAN'S CURIOSITY.

Rev. A. H. McPherson, minister of the United Free Church of Scotland, Lucy street, Dublin, told the large number of people at the Ormond Bazaar, in aid of the Clonturk House Orphanage, on Saturday, that since he came to Dublin a year ago he had been asking a good many questions, but had not got answers to them. One of the principal questions was: "What is the Sinn Fein Irishman inside himself really like?" "Nobody seems able to tell," said Mr. McPherson. "Dublin," he said, "was an interesting city, and since he came he had had a really good time."

In the absence, through illness, of Sir Andrew Beattie, P.C., the bazaar was opened by Alderman Hubbard Clark, High Sheriff. He spoke of the work done in Clonturk House for the orphans. He added that he looked upon the institution as the jewel of Ormond's organisation, and he thought that the whole Church should interest itself in the work, and to the whole Church he commended it.

Rev. J. J. Macaulay, who presided, announced that as a result of the bazaar the burden was certainly going to be lifted from the orphanage. He believed that they would have a very welcome balance to the good, which, he was sure, would be immediately put to fine use in the expansion of the ministry to the orphans.

Mr. D. K. Stewart returned thanks to all who had helped the bazaar.

The attendance during the afternoon and evening was again good, and the promoters expressed themselves as thoroughly satisfied with the results.

WINTER ASSIZES.

CORK'S HEROES.

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

Yesterday in Cork the Legion of ex-Service Men of all denominations attended Memorial Services for their fallen comrades, and, although the weather was extremely inclement, an imposing demonstration was made.

They paraded outside their clubhouse in the South Mall, and, accompanied by their band, they marched to their respective places of worship, in charge of Captain Murtagh. The Roman Catholic section, accompanied by their chaplain, Lieut.-Colonel Rev. Dr. Scannell, D.S.O., M.C., attended St. Mary's Roman Catholic Cathedral, and the Church of Ireland section, accompanied by their chaplain, Captain the Rev. H. C. McKinley, attended Service at St. Finbarr's Cathedral.

A pleasing feature was the harmony and comradeship which prevailed.

At St. Finbarr's Cathedral a deeply impressive Service was conducted by Dean Bebington and Canon Nicholson. The Dean said that they were gathered there that morning to keep in memory a very great day in the history of the world. It was an extraordinary experience for a generation to pass through. After all the sacrifice of life came victory. They had in their church a column called "The Heroes' Column" in commemoration of men belonging to the diocese. A book was being prepared, which would contain as far as possible the records of service of those men.

They should pray for the success of the great Conference at Washington, that they might find some way whereby the nations of the world might live in peace, and that disputes in future might be solved by some other means than by the horrors of war. They would sing "Rock of Ages, cleft for me," which was the hymn selected by Admiral Beatty on the occasion of the surrender of the German Fleet. The Service concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

PHŒNIX PARK SOCIAL NOTES.

CLOSE OF ENJOYABLE SEASON.

The bright green of the grass, and the trees with their plentiful covering of leaves, although autumn-tinted, made it difficult to realise on Saturday that it was nearly mid-November, and that the day's sport would be the last meeting of the 1921 season on the Phœnix Park Course. It was only in keeping with the Club's record that enjoyable sport signalised the finale of the autumn's racing, and despite the counter-attractions of the hunting fields there was a very good attendance.

The absence of the Lord Lieutenant and Viscountess FitzAlan of Derwent, who were responsible for the Viceregal Stand not being opened, but several members of His Excellency's Staff, including Captain Hon. H. FitzAlan Howard, Captain H. Gisborne Holt, were present in the Club enclosure, which was well filled. A great many ladies were present, and a feature of the gathering was the beauty of the fur coats, which were very generally worn. Coats and capes of seal, mole, coney, mink, and squirrel were effectively worn, while sables, collars, and trimmings of sable, ermine, pointed fox, and other favourite furs proved an effective foil to the smart tailor-made costumes which, in various dark, rich hues, were ideal wear for a race meeting.

Among those present were: The Lord Chancellor, the Right Hon. Sir John Ross, the Earl of Kenmare, Lady Powerscourt, Lord Holmpatrick, Hon. Sybil Hamilton, Mr. and Lady Mary Corbally, Sir John and Lady Arnott, with whom were Mrs. Van Cutsem and Captain Arnott; Lady Edina Ainsworth, Miss Singleton, Captain and Mrs. Wyndham Quin and party, Sir Timothy and Lady O'Brien, the Misses O'Brien, Major Giles Loder, Lady Milbanke, Hon. Mrs. Barry, Mr. Blacker Douglas, Hon. Mrs. Westenra, Sir William Goulding, who was one of the Stewards; Lady Goulding, Mrs. and the Misses Gaisford St. Lawrence.

Others also noticed were:—Captain Anthony Maude, Miss Maude, Hon. Mrs. Dewhurst, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McNeile, Miss McNeile, Colonel and Mrs. Best, Lady Myles, Dr. and Mrs. Peacocke, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Fitzpatrick, Mr. Garstin, Captain Lingard Goulding, Miss Lughee, Miss Symonds, Colonel and Mrs. Powle, Captain and Mrs. Ronald Nutting, Mr. and Mrs. T. Donnelly, Mrs. Orpen, Miss Hamilton, Miss Gore, Mr. E. Kennedy, Miss Challoner Knox, Mrs. Page Croft, Miss Burke, Lady Lumsden, Mr. and Mrs. Heard, Mr. Black, Mr. and Mrs. Peard, Mr. and Mr. H. Peard, Mrs. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lloyd, Mrs. G. C. Greene, Mrs. H. Guinness.

Mr. Maxwell Arnott, the Misses O'Connor, Mr. J. J. Maher, Mr. Bellaney, Mr. Hunt, Mr. and Miss Jameson, Dr. Maunsell, Colonel Mac-Cabe, Mr. Hewitt, Mdlle. Blanche, Mr. Pack Beresford, Mr. C. T. Wallis, Mr. W. A. Wallis, Mr. and Mrs. Norton, Mr. and Miss Sullivan, Captain Bernard Daly, Captain and Miss Hume, Mr. and Mrs. A. McCann, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher, Mr. E. Bellaney, Mr. Porter, Mr. W. Parrish, Mr. and Mrs. Lane, Mr. and Miss Graham, Mr. and Mrs. O'Reilly, Mr. Perry, Mr. Johnson, etc.

NEW ISSUE.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA 6 P.C. INSCRIBED STOCK.

The Government of Western Australia offer a loan of £3,000,000 in the form of 6 per Cent. Inscribed Stock at the price of £95 10s. per cent. Interest is payable half-yearly, and the principal on July 1, 1940, the Government retaining the option of redeeming the whole or part of the loan after July 31, 1930, on giving three months' notice. The proceeds of the loan will be used for the redemption of £2,000,000 Treasury bills, due January 26, 1922, which were issued mainly for railways, harbours, water supply, and for settling ex-Service men on the land, and about £1,000,000 Local Inscribed Stock, due January 1, 1922. By the terms of a special Act of 1910, provision has to be made by the State for a cumulative sinking fund at the rate of ½ per cent. per annum. The accumulated sinking funds available for Western Australian loans, invested in the names of trustees in London, now amount to about £8,000,000. CARL ROSA OPERA.

The three weeks' engagement of the Carl Rosa Opera Company at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, ended on Saturday. The season has been a successful one. The operas staged have all been well presented, and the attendance at every performance was satisfactory, and the company has every reason to be satisfied with the support it received.

The theatre was well filled at the matinée performance on Saturday afternoon, when Mr. Carrodus' new and beautiful fairy opera was well staged, and the singing and acting attained a high level of efficiency.

At night "Il Trovatore" was repeated to a crowded theatre. At the conclusion of the opera and the season, the company received an ovation.

THE MATER CONCERTS.

Yesterday's concert at La Scala Theatre, in aid of the Mater Hospital, was a great success. The Dublin Symphony Orchestra was in fine form, and Mr. Vincent O'Brien led it with his usual musical skill. Schubert's Marche Militaire is an old battle-horse, but the audience was delighted with it, and also with Tchaikowsky's little Suite, which was played remarkably well. The selection from Wolf-Ferrari's opera, "The Jewels of the Madonna," was the most interesting item on a well-filled programme, and was given with much taste. Other orchestral items were: "Fantasie Ballet" Overture, and a fantasia of Offenbach's Fille du Tambour Major.

The best of the vocal items was Miss Foster's "Voi che sapete." How fade all other Cherubinos seem when Mozart takes the stage! He is still the incomparable master of melody, and the "Figaro" Aria just suited Miss Foster's voice. She also sang some ballads and folk songs in a delightful manner.

Mr. Hubert Rooney was best in his Irish airs. An Maidrin Ruad was charming. He also sang Chadwick's "Allah," but in this we did not like him quite so well. Miss Lucy Leeman's sympathetic accompaniments were a feature of the performance, and the programme was as well chosen as it was carried out.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Anent Doctor Murray's lecture on Daniel O'Connell, here is a bit from a letter that Queen Victoria wrote to her uncle, King of the Belgians, from Buckingham Palace on the 22nd of February, 1838:—"I had a very brilliant Levee again yesterday, at which O'Connell and all his sons, son-in-law, nephew, etc., appeared. I received him, as you may imagine, with a very smiling face; he has been behaving very well this year. It was quite a treat for me to see him, as I had long wished it." FUNERAL OF ARCHDEACON BOYD.

The funeral of Archdeacon R. W. Boyd, Rector of Kilmore, took place to Mount Jerome Cemetery on Saturday. An impressive Service was held in St. Patrick's Cathedral, at which there was a large attendance.

In the course of a tribute to the late Archdeacon, the Bishop of Kilmore said that as Canon of St. Patrick's the Archdeacon had been known by the worshippers in that cathedral for a long number of years. More than one competent authority had spoken to him of the excellency of his sermons. A former Dean told him shortly after his appointment, how thankful he was that our diocese had sent such a man to the Chapter. Those who had worked with Archdeacon Boyd on the revision of the Prayer Book know how carefully he threw himself into the work, and how wide was his Liturgical knowledge. He was very anxious that the companion or appendix to the Prayer Book should be published. This was constantly in his thoughts and his prayers—at this he spent long hours of labour, as he exercised his role in the religious education of the young was, perhaps, not so generally known, but in Ardagh Diocese he had been long consulted as an expert. The influence the Archdeacon had with young people was extraordinary. There was many a man and woman this day unblessed his name for the influence he had on their character. Concluding, his lordship said —He was an able man, a learned man, but, above all, he was a good man. He had faced many intellectual difficulties, but his simple humble faith seemed to have been made all the stronger thereby. We have good reason to mourn his loss. May God raise up many young men for our ministry who will be imitators of him even as he was of Christ.

The chief mourners were:—Miss Maud Conlington, Rev. Canon Johnston, Captain T. J. Harris, Captain F. J. Harris, J. H. Freeman.

The officiating clergy were:—The Bishop of Kilmore, the Dean of St. Patrick's, Rev. Canon Irvine, Crosby, B.D., Rev. H. J. Lawler, D.D., Precentor of St. Patrick's, Rev. J. J. Atkinson, Dean's Vicar of St. Patrick's; Rev. R. H. Murray, Chancellor of St. Patrick's.

The general attendance included:—Meredith Johnston, Canon Thompson, William E. Hopkins, Rev. Canon Anderson, Rev. H. J. Johnston, Rev. J. W. Hammick, David K. C. Macgregor, E. Wilkinson, Mrs. Ireland (Leixlip), Miss Cruickshanks (Dunsany), Rev. J. F. Sheaman, R. A. Gerard, Rev. W. M. Gibbon, Dr. George Hewson, Rev. J. J. Butler, the Archdeacon of Elphin, the Bishop of Limerick, Canon Somerville, Mrs. George A. Harris, Miss A. A. Carnegie, Rev. R. G. Sullivan, David Hopkins.

Canon Kingsmill Moore was unavoidably absent.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Although the Board of Trade returns of overseas trading are highly encouraging, showing as they do an increase of just seven millions for October over the September returns, the Labour Exchange reports do not put a healthier or more encouraging complexion on the general situation. Another important report, in fact, shows that nearly 200,000 has been added to the unemployment list in excess of the previous week's register. Until peace, at home and abroad, is re-established, no real or permanent revival can be expected in the trade of commerce. However, all thoughts are now focussed on the Washington Conference, and, if successful, it will go a long way in balancing the universal currency problems, which will be a step in the right direction. No new or important developments in markets generally.

Messrs. A. Guinness, Son, and Co.'s exports of porter from Dublin from 1st January, 1921, to date were 764,143 hhds. as against 809,164 hhds. for the corresponding period of 1920.

BABY PESTRIDGE.

Builds Bone and Muscle.

Stretton Road, Leicester,

Dear Sirs, Sept., 1920.

Enclosed I am sending you a photo of my baby boy, aged 3 years, and should like to say how much I appreciate your valued preparation.

Virol was suggested by nurse when baby was just over a month old, and the marvellous improvement in bone and muscle was very soon apparent. His general health has at all times been excellent, for which we think your Virol is responsible.

Believe me,
Yours faithfully,
Mrs. B. J. PESTRIDGE.

Virol contains the Vitamines of Growth and development which are essential to health.

While the presence of Vitamines is claimed on behalf of many preparations, Virol is the only one whose claims are supported by the publication of independent scientific tests carried out on the manufactured article sold to the public.
